Important restrictions and regulations concerning publication/exhibition

1. Possession of a digital reproduction of University of the Arts Libraries and Archives materials does not constitute permission to publish or exhibit. The University of the Arts holds literary rights only for material created by University staff for official institutional purposes or else legally transferred to the University by the copyright owner. For all other material, literary rights, including copyright, belong to the authors or their legal heirs and assigns. Researchers are responsible for obtaining permission from rights holders for publication and related purposes. In providing permission to publish material obtained from the University of the Arts Archives, the University does not assume any responsibility for infringement of copyright or of publication rights in material that may be held by others, and the publisher assumes all responsibility for any claims under the Copyright Law or the laws of libel which may be made as a result of the publication.
2. The responsibility for obtaining any additional permissions required for publication of archival material remains with the publisher of the material.
3. The publisher agrees to cite the source of the archival material in all published works. A dissertation is considered to be a published work. The acknowledgement for the University is "University of the Arts. University Libraries and Archives". Citation must caption each reproduction.
4. In authorizing use of material, The University of the Arts does not surrender its own right to use it, or grant others to do so.
5. Permission is granted for a one-time use only. Publisher must re-apply, in writing, for permission for each subsequent publication/exhibition.

I have read and agree to comply with the regulations stated above.
